

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a high-yield process for producing high-activity, high-purity transglutaminase by refolding denatured microorganism-derived transglutaminase by reacting denatured transglutaminase in an aqueous medium under acidic conditions and reconstituting a higher-order enzymatically active state in an aqueous medium at a neutral pH.